

March 18-19, 2009
Mandarin Oriental Hotel
Washington, D.C.

David D. Weick

Senior Vice President Shared Services and Chief Information Officer McDonald's Corporation

Mr. Weick is the Chief Information Officer and Senior Vice President of Shared Services for McDonald's Corporation. In this role, Mr. Weick is responsible for improving McDonald's business results by providing information and process improvements through the efficient use of technology and optimization of shared services. The functional scope of Mr. Weick's role is expansive, as it involves responsibility for all information technology functions within the corporation—this includes operations in over 118 countries and applications in all business function areas. Mr. Weick joined McDonald's in September of 1997 as Vice President of U.S. Technology Services.

Prior to joining McDonald's, Mr. Weick was general manager, marketing, finance & HR systems for Ameritech where he led two corporate re-engineering efforts. Prior to Ameritech, Mr. Weick was at Specialty Foods Corporation where he served as president of the Bagel Place, a southern California based wholesale baking concern with both fresh and frozen product distribution. Additionally, Mr. Weick spent over 12 years with Kraft Foods in a variety of roles in technology management, as well as quality management.

Mr. Weick is a member of the board of directors for Trustmark Insurance Company in Lake Forest, IL, and El Valor Corp., a charitable organization that provides services to needy children in Chicago, IL. He also serves on the advisory boards of FS Tec and Hostec/Eurotec, two foodservice technology exhibitions and conferences.

Mr. Weick holds a bachelor's degree in Computer Science from Northern Illinois University and a MBA from Loyola University.

He is married to his wife, Joanne, and has three children.

Presented by

In cooperation with

Economist Intelligence Unit

The Economist